An artist comes to your wedding & paints your day

Your guests watch as your portraits come to life

You leave with a beautiful & timeless family heirloom

“we feel blessed to have this beautiful painting to treasure always”

How it works

Book me for your special date

Tell me what you want in your painting

I come along and paint on the day

You take away the painting at the end of the party

Booking

If you would like me to paint for you, I need a completed booking form and a booking fee of £100. All my booking admin is done by my partner, Maison, but if you want to chat before you book we can arrange a time. Once your date is in the diary we can arrange a consultation about your painting and your day. Let me know as soon as possible if you want to book.

Portrait paintings

These are paintings of the couple or small family groups only, a portrait of you on your day, which includes the venue setting and décor. Because I am not painting lots of guests, I have more time and space on the canvas for the couple and background details. This is for you if you want lots of portrait detail in the couple, and room to include all those special details that you spent so long planning, like table centrepieces, cakes or aisle decorations

Creating a faithful and beautiful likeness which captures you naturally on your day is my specialism, and this type of painting really gives me the chance to create my best work for you, by letting me focus on just a few faces and figures.

Event paintings

If you want a painting which captures guests as well as the couple, then you are looking for an event painting. You can tell me which people you would like in the painting so that I can include your most important guests prominently. I ask you to arrange for me to meet your key guests early in the event for a quick reference photo so that I can identify them and paint the correct people!

An event painting can either be a broad view of the event which includes as much of the action as possible, or you can choose to make it more of a group portrait if you prefer

Travelling to your venue

I love travelling to weddings wherever they may be, so if your venue is in a far off place I can still quote you to travel there. All the prices in this brochure are for the London area, within 100 miles of my studio in Essex. I ask for 45p per mile beyond that, and £100 for an overnight stay, or the cost of air travel and accommodation if needed. Central London venues mean a congestion charge and parking, and I ask £50 extra to cover those.

Ethical statement

It is important to me that my paintings make the world a better place, and that the overall impact of my work is a positive one. I am mindful of how my choices may impact other people and animals. I wish, so far as I can, to limit any contribution I might directly or indirectly make to ecological destruction or social harm through the work that I do.

I am vegan, and so are all of my materials.

My studio in Essex is off grid and powered by 100% solar energy.

I limit the number of long distance bookings I take each year, so if your wedding is further afield it's important to book early.

I expect to switch to an electric car in the next 3 years providing national infrastructure permits it.

I will not engage in any marketing or business practices which are demonstrably wasteful, and seek to use all resources with care and efficiency.
